Marc Jacobs dedicated his entire collection to it and Clements-Ribeiro played around with it at Cacharel. Everything isn't what it seems in fashion this fall. Trompe L'oeil makes one simple piece look like two or more. There are ruffle collar prints at Moschino, fake printed ties at Matthew Williamson, mock pearl necklaces at Cacharel, trompe l'oeil suit collars at Carol Christian Poell, shadowy buttons and seams for leather jackets at Martin Margiela and needle impressions at Tiphaine Deguelle and Alexandre Matthieu. Maybe it's not real, but it sure is pretty. Teddy Czopp
